What makes Travelbound such a green company?

A whopping 90% of our Brighton team either walk, cycle or use public transport to get to work and we make a point of using independent shops nearby for our lunches and coffee!

All of our office waste including: paper, cans, bottles and glass is recycled and we've stopped using plastic cups.

When printing, we have a re-cycled paper tray and print on both sides wherever possible.

We ask our suppliers to improve their own sustainability and for our cleaning staff to use eco-friendly products.

We've introduced a range of sustainable school trips so that teachers can meet their key stage objectives on sustainability and global awareness whilst learning outside the classroom.

We encourage our staff, suppliers and customers to come up with suggestions on how we can make positive changes.

We try to monitor our school groups' carbon footprint so that we can take steps to reduce it.

Installing Hippo devices in our toilets will mean that we use two thirds less water to flush.

We're switching to energy-efficient bulbs throughout the office and disposing of the old bulbs properly when they expire.

We've introducing a staff cycle-to-work scheme.

We're switching our electricity provider to a "green" tariff, at no extra expense.

Finally, there are plans afoot to organise staff volunteering sessions in the local community, such as conservation work in the South Downs National Park and helping at the local hospital.
